

Faith vs. Science?

No theory of the origins of the universe can be proven. In scientific terms, they can only remain theories. Both evolutionists and creationists (or those who believe in Intelligent Design) contend that science supports their theory.

What observations in science have been used to support each theory?

Evolution	Special Creation

Proponents of evolution contend that creation is about faith, not science. It could be argued, however, that the many gaps and inconsistencies in the evolutionary theory require a great deal of “faith.”

How does faith—or a belief beyond science—enter the picture for each theory?
